Web Development • Branding • Advertising

Registered in England and Wales. Number 0744592

Overview

Blue Sequence Limited was registered in England and Wales in the year 2010 and in Nigeria in the year 2011. We are creative gurus, enthusiastic intellectuals and pragmatic designers who love telling stories that ignite and affirm the relationship between an organisation and its audience.

We are ultimately inspired by our collaborations with clients who value design and demand a competitive edge in the marketplace by clearly delivering their vision to their audience because we believe that elevated positioning, economic success and market presence for companies comes through a design culture that is developed from strategic thinking, a smart approach, creative insight and a passion for craftsmanship. Consequently, our intuition and experience is combined to create an authentic brand story ■

Services <<

Content development

Our strategic content development process is an upfront research analysis that creates innovative content which attracts attention and helps our clients communicate effectively in the digital sphere. These include but not limited to contents for site optimisation to population of social media channels. Our capabilities include photography, animation, copy writing and editorial development

Product development

We have a proven, process-driven approach to product innovation, design and development and employ systematic methods to guide the processes involved in new product launches. We partner with companies to create digital products with new or different characteristics that offer new or additional benefits to the customer. Our work includes content websites and subscriptions, web applications suites, script installations, e-commerce bundles and consulting services.

Corporate Communication

Corporate communication helps an organisation manage its culture, identity and perceptions by explaining its mission and combining its visions and values into a cohesive message to stakeholders. We create corporate brochures, annual reports, e-newsletters and other correspondences to help enhance the performance and reputation of an organisation because the success of a company is closely intertwined with effective communication..

Process

Our extensive research in consumer behaviour and brand loyalty stimulates four phases which help to create or augment brands that communicate and influence its audience

Gather

Research & Identify

By determining trends, taking into cognizance competition and observing activities, we facilitate our ability to evaluate the gap between a company and its goals and bring to light the synthesis of the relationship between a brand and its audience.

Express

Plan & Simplify

While we attempt to think out of the box, we also take into consideration established guidelines in creating images that are not only unique and striking, but also sustain the brand in its delivery through all channels for effective communication.

Deliver

Create & engage

We ensure that design solutions establish an audience's connection with a brand through various channels by the assimilation of a brand's message and the engaging in a conversation with it, thereby nurturing confidence in it.

Lift

Gauge & Perfect

We build brand equity by the continuous analysis of how effective a brand's message comes and cuts across. This continuous process of gauging, weighing, enhancing and unveiling variations to perfection, keep brands elevated.
